AN ITAWAMBA COMMUNITY COLLEGE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION AND FOUNDATION PUBLICATION SPRING 2022

More than 70 years ago, a small group of individuals in Itawamba County had a vision. Little did they know the magnitude of the impact that Itawamba Community College would have today.

Now in 2022, ICC's footprint extends beyond that cotton and cornfield investment of $4,000, where in 1948, 200 students had an opportunity to first experience how special this institution is.

The impact of the College has woven its way through the hills and valleys of Chickasaw, Itawamba, Lee, Monroe and Pontotoc counties and beyond. And, that meager investment has multiplied many times over in financial aid, workforce training and instructional dollars to ensure that all students receive their best start here. Our students and faculty are your friends, neighbors and members of your community. Some are first-generation students who are now equipped with an educational foundation to stretch beyond their original limits.

The generosity of our donors and partners enables us to provide the best start for our students, those who continue to become medical professionals, teachers, engineers and industry leaders as well as countless others in your communities.

ICC's tradition of pride, service and excellence continues, but the best is yet to come. I look forward to sharing this journey with you.

FOUNDATION CHAIR JERRY ROBBINS

What an amazing time to serve as Chair of the Itawamba Community College Foundation Board!

If you haven't visited any ICC location lately, you are definitely missing an opportunity to reconnect with the BEST!

At the Fulton Campus, Magnolia Hall is shaping up to be the most beautiful student residence anywhere. The Academic and Student Center at the Tupelo Campus is an extraordinary front door. The Belden Center continues to be the hub for meetings and workforce training.

Now more than ever, we all should take advantage of the opportunity to give back to the college that has invested so much in us. You can make a one-time gift to the Foundation, endow a scholarship to guarantee that students of tomorrow have their best start for an unlimited future or consider a legacy gift.

No matter the amount, your generosity will be utilized in an area of your choice or where it is most needed.

As we have celebrated Thanksgiving and Christmas and have counted and recounted our blessings, I hope that you will join me in continuing to assist with shaping lives and building futures of ICC's students of today and tomorrow. Students of all ages, especially adult learners, need additional funds to achieve their educational goals. Many are first generation students, and community college commencement is a milestone.

Together, we can transform dreams into reality.

Itawamba Community College dedicated the E. Rhodes and Leona B. Carpenter Foundation Simulation Laboratory in the Health Science Education Center on its Tupelo Campus Sept. 20.

"Today we recognize our strong partnership with our friends at the E. Rhodes and Leona B. Carpenter Foundation," ICC President Dr. Jay Allen said during the ceremony, which was abbreviated due to COVID precautions. "We have received approximately $175,000 over the past seven years for equipment and upgrades. The Carpenter Foundation understands our mission and the impact ICC has on our communities."

Gifts from the Carpenter Foundation have supported all of ICC's Health Science programs with technology, equipment upgrades and student and faculty support.

According to Dr. Dana Walker, director, ICC's Associate Degree Nursing program has utilized the funds to purchase equipment such as bar code scanners to mimic medication scanners used in healthcare to improve patient safety, manikin replacement parts to reflect lifelike scenarios instead of utilization of the imagination that is sometimes limited and emergency equipment for students to have hands-on training to improve patient outcomes.

"Studies show that collaborative learning across healthcare disciplines such as respiratory care, physical therapy, practical nursing and others leads to better communication and collaboration as well as better alignment to healthcare and improved practice, which can only improve patient care," Walker said. "With your generous donations, our students are able to learn in a state-of-the art simulation lab with state-of-the-art equipment."

In the simulation lab, ICC's healthcare students are able to practice basic skills that are taught in the classroom. Simulation helps students bridge the gap between the skills learned in the lab, theory taught in the classroom and real-life situations seen during clinical rotation.

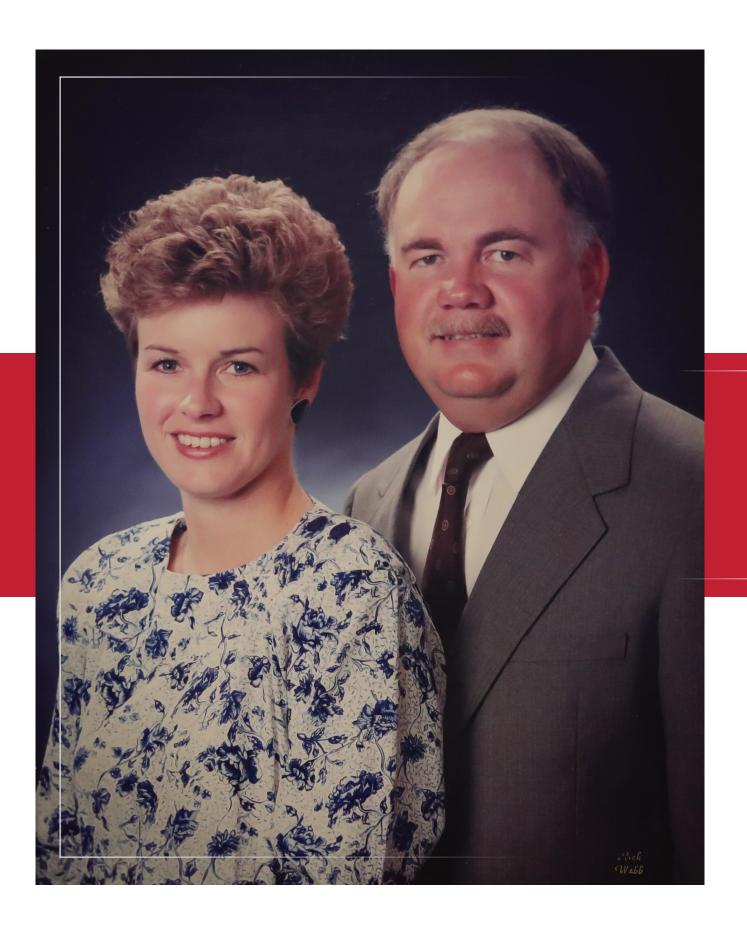

The E. Rhodes and Leona B. Carpenter Foundation was formed in 1975 as E. Rhodes Carpenter Foundation by E. Rhodes Carpenter, founder of the Richmond, Virginia-based company now known as Carpenter Company.

Lee Tucker, division manager of the Carpenter Company, which is located in Verona, expressed his appreciation to ICC in his remarks. "Thank you for being a leader in education" Tucker said. "Everyone knows how vital education is. You do the important work. Writing a check is easy. Thank you for being a part of our effort."

MEMORIAL ENDOWED SCHOLARSHIP

"Susan Loden lived life to the fullest, a driven lady...very smart," said her husband, Aaron, when describing the longtime Itawamba Community College economics instructor, who died in 2005.

"She sang in church even when very sick," Aaron continued. "She loved her children (Kayla and Clayton) and took excellent care of them. I adored her."

And that love has evolved into the Susan E. Loden Memorial Endowed Scholarship at ICC, which will enable Itawamba County students who have financial need to continue their education for years to come.

Recipients must be full-time students who have and maintain a 2.5 grade point average. Potential success in college will also be considered.

An ICC alumnus and Fulton native, Susan earned both her bachelor's and master's degrees from Ole Miss. She was hired by her mentor, former dean Dr. Bill Edmonson, and began teaching in 1988. "She loved her work and was especially proud of her SIFE (Students in Free Enterprise) members," Aaron said. As the SIFE sponsor, Susan organized educational activities and promotional projects to teach economic concepts to the community. She coached awardwinning student teams for a number of years.

During her teaching career, Susan received prestigious honors, including President's Meritorious Achievement Award twice, Who's Who Among America's Teachers honoree, ICC's Lamplighter Conference for Excellence in Education representative, sponsor of the SIFE International Rookie of the Year Team and sponsor of the SIFE Regional Winner for multiple years. In 1998, ICC's National Investment Challenge team ranked third nationally out of 200 or more colleges and universities.

One of her former students said, in 1996, "The words to describe such a lady as Susan Loden are endless, as she is the epitome of what we all should be. She is a truly sincere, caring, inspiring and very intellectual instructor and person in all of life...Her class has been one of learning about the economic system and how it works, but above all, it has been a lesson about who we are, where we are going and the joys of life. She is a mentor in my life and I am glad I had the joy of meeting her through my studies."

Susan was also active in her community as a member of the Itawamba County Development Council.

The Lodens owned and operated Fulton Skateland for more than 23 years. For a few months, Susan also served as a substitute teacher at Itawamba Agricultural High School. She was a very active member of Big Oak Baptist Church, where she was church pianist and a member of the Youth and Education committee.

Aaron said that by setting up the scholarship in Susan's memory, his family "hopes to help students further their education and achieve more in life. This is what she would have wanted. We don't want people to forget what she stood for and all the good she did while on earth. We want to keep her memory alive and let everyone know what a great person she was."

Susan once said, "I am a strong believer in the local junior college system. I know from experience that it has helped scores of people who otherwise would not have pursued a college education."

And because Susan Loden's career path found its way back to Itawamba Community College and her belief in the importance of two-year colleges, her family's generosity will enable students for years to come to take the next step in their future.

HEALTHCARE ENDOWED SCHOLARSHIP

Dr. C.K. "Dick" White has had a long association with Itawamba Community College.

The Fulton native was a student when it was IJC, and he has watched as his alma mater has evolved over the years to a campus that looks like it should be a university and expanded to two more locations.

It still has the same feel, he said, when it was IJC. Classes were small, more individual attention and just "that closeness that you love. I knew my teachers and had access to them," White said.

His love for ICC and a desire for future students in health sciences programs to have an opportunity to excel have led to the Dr. C.K. "Dick" White and Elsie D. White Healthcare Endowed Scholarship as a planned gift through a life insurance policy.

"Elementary, high school and community college taught me what I needed to succeed over the years," White noted.

When he was a student at ICC, White said that classes were "pretty general for everybody, but now they have to declare a major. Sometimes they have to stay an extra semester."

White said he was born "right here in the Fulton Clinic and delivered by Dr. Chippy Crockett." When he was growing up, his father owned White's Supermarket on the square and he learned many life lessons while working there. His family lived where the apartments are just past McNeece-Morris Funeral Home.

White said that most students today don't know that there was no interstate and that a narrow bridge over the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway was the connection with Fulton and beyond, He traveled that two-lane asphalt to Oxford after he earned his ICC degree.

White met his wife, a Natchez native, at Ole Miss, where she was already a student. Today they live in Tupelo. In 2020, he retired as chief medical officer of the North Mississippi Medical Center. From 2018-20, he also served as interim chief quality and safety medical officer for North Mississippi Health Services, and since 2016, executive board member of Connected Care Partners CIN. He has an extensive list of honors and awards, including NMMC Surgeon of the Year and Itawamba Agricultural High School Alumnus of the Year. White is a member of numerous professional associations and serves on the board of a number of community organizations. He also earned degrees from the University of Mississippi and the University of Mississippi School of Medicine.

"Community college is important and so is financial assistance," White said. Without it, he couldn't have afforded to go to college since his father died close to the time he graduated. Then, ICC tuition was $125 per semester. "ICC gave me an opportunity to continue on my journey. I came from a small town in Mississippi. I saw many of my classmates get married and work at Charm Step. Had I gotten off track, I never would have kept going."

White said he has had opportunities working with the North Mississippi Medical Center and its board. "It you can get a person to move into medicine, it is a win-win. Local people invest in their communities, and it generates a higher level of economy and quality of life."

"Elsie and I had talked about the fact that I was a number in a number of places," White noted. I was just another person. ICC was a pivotal thing in me doing what I want to do."

"THEY MADE A DIFFERENCE IN MY LIFE. WHY NOT MAKE A DIFFERENCE IN SOMEONE ELSE'S?"

Among those individuals who had an impact on White were former instructors Herb Parham and Jim Long. "They made a difference in my life. Why not make a difference in someone else's?"

Recipients of the scholarship will be full-time students who are Mississippi residents enrolled in a health science education program and maintain a 2.5 grade point average or higher. First preference will be for students from Itawamba County, and second preference will be from any of the other four counties in ICC's service district. Potential for success in college and financial need will be considered in the selection process.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF COMMUNITY COLLEGE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Jay Allen

Itawamba Community College President Dr. Jay Allen has been named to the American Association of Community College Board of Directors for a three-year term.

He is one of two Mississippi community college presidents serving on the prestigious board, which acts on behalf of the institutional members to create and maintain a vision for AACC, provide a national voice and advocacy for the community college mission and to determine and ensure that the organization adheres to appropriate standards of performance. A total of 32 presidents serve on the Board. Allen is an affiliate council representative and board member for the Community Colleges of Appalachia, which serves the common interests of colleges and their communities through programs and services responsive to the unique cultural, geographic and economic development challenges facing the region. Dr. Mary Graham of Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College is serving on the AACC Board as well.

The AACC represents nearly 1,200 two-year, associate degree-granting institutions and more than 12 million students.

Allen became the seventh president of ICC on July 1, 2017 after serving as president and chief executive officer of Hopkinsville Community College in Kentucky since January 2014.

A native Mississippian, he served in several leadership positions at Hinds Community College and as a senior-level administrator for Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College - Perkinston and the George County Center – for a combined total of 25 years. He earned the associate's degree from Hinds, both bachelor's and master's degrees from Mississippi State University and the doctorate from the University of Mississippi. He currently serves on numerous local, state and national boards, including chair of the Mississippi Association of Community and Junior Colleges State Workforce Education committee; chair of the Mississippi Education Achievement Council responsible for the statewide educational attainment goal and Chair of the HERDI South Board. In 2019 he was nominated by students and awarded Phi Theta Kappa's national Paragon Award recognizing college presidents who show exceptional dedication and support of student success by emphasizing academic achievement, leadership and service among high-achieving students at their college.

Allen and his wife, Belinda, have two daughters, Emma Grace, 18; and Mollianne, 13.

CHUCK HOWELL

I continue to be amazed at the quality of the events that are presented by the administration, faculty and staff of Itawamba Community College. I encourage all the alumni and friends of ICC to attend as many in-person events as your schedule permits.

Since our last newsletter, I enjoyed attending the ICC Fiscal New Year's Eve Party on the Fulton Campus on June 30, which celebrated the end of FY 21 and welcomed in FY 22. The Homecoming celebration on September 23 was absolutely outstanding. Earlier in the afternoon, ICC hosted an awards ceremony in the Davis Event Center which honored the 2021 Alumnus of the Year Karen Camp McFerrin of Mantachie; and the Athletic Hall of Fame inductees Cameron "CeCee" Austin Cavenaugh of Pontotoc and Jeff Tally of Saltillo. It was a great time to meet so many of their family members. Later, these three outstanding individuals were honored at the homecoming football game. It was also a joy to attend the fourth annual Legacy Foundation Scholarship Recognition Dinner to honor our Foundation donors and their scholarship recipients on November 9 at the Belden Center.

It continues to be an honor for me to serve the ICC Alumni Association as President. My sincere thanks to all of the dedicated alumni and friends who support ICC with your continued commitment and encouragement. Great things continue to happen at ICC. We want you to be a part as we approach the Diamond Anniversary of Itawamba Community College in 2023.

Service is an important word to Itawamba Community College instructor and alumnus Ashley Brown of Blue Springs.

Fresh off a nine-month deployment to Kuwait, Brown returned to the classroom as an industrial maintenance, robotics and electrical technology instructor at the Belden Center. He is now in a different kind of service... recruiting and teaching students.

That's a long way from what Major Brown was doing in western Asia, where he was the logistic officer for a rotary aviation maintenance unit.

Brown has been in the military for more than 17 years, beginning as an enlisted private. Following a 12-month deployment to Iraq, he was promoted to the rank of Sergeant. After six years of enlisted time, he was commissioned as a Second Lieutenant. While Brown was in the command position, his unit was deployed for nine months to Syria and Kuwait.

Today, he teaches in an air-conditioned and heated classroom, depending on the season.

Brown, who earned his associate's degree in robotics/ automated systems from ICC, became an instructor following a more than 10-year career in industry as a maintenance technician and manufacturing engineer. He also has a bachelor's degree in liberal arts from Excelsior College.

"After several years working in industry, I had returned to ICC taking courses in Tool and Die Technology," Brown said. "During this time Mr. (Barry) Emison suggested that I apply for an instructor position with the Workforce department. I was fortunate enough to be hired. A year later the CTE Division opened the Industrial Maintenance Technology program, and I had the honor of being selected as the instructor."

He says his ICC job enables him to assist others in improving their careers and lives, which can be translated into service. Brown also likes that he has a work schedule that allows optimal amounts of time with his family which includes his wife, Mandee, and children Zander, Hope, Gunner and Wyatt.

At ICC, he has been awarded two of its most prestigious honors, Lamplighter 2013 and Meritorious Achievement, 2017.

Whether he's in Syria, Kuwait or Belden, Mississippi, Ashley Brown is involved in service...to his country or to the students he shapes for new beginnings and new careers. Welcome home, Ashley Brown.
